A quantitative trait locus (QTL) is a locus (section of DNA) which correlates with variation of a quantitative trait in the phenotype of a population of organisms. QTLs are mapped by identifying which molecular markers (such as SNPs or AFLPs) correlate with an observed trait. This is often an early step in identifying and sequencing the actual genes that cause the trait variation.

Genetic association is when one or more genotypes within a population co-occur with a phenotypic trait more often than would be expected by chance occurrence.. Studies of genetic association aim to test whether single-locus alleles or genotype frequencies (or more generally, multilocus haplotype frequencies) differ between two groups of individuals (usually diseased subjects and healthy controls).

GENETIC EPIDEMIOLOGY GLOSSARY [M.Tevfik DORAK]

Our knowledge of genetic variations has been so profoundly influenced by Mendelian genetics that it is difficult to speculate about the ways in which our thinking will need to change with further insights into genomics. We have far to go in teasing apart the multiple variables of complex traits and diseases, the relationships between hereditary, somatic and environmental factors, and in making ...

Cytochromes P450 (CYP) are a major source of variability in drug pharmacokinetics and response. Of 57 putatively functional human CYPs only about a dozen enzymes, belonging to the CYP1, 2, and 3 families, are responsible for the biotransformation of most foreign substances including 70â€“80% of all drugs in clinical use.
